FOREWORD

The time has come to receive that coveted diploma, then to doff cap and gown and bid farewell to your underclassmen and sayonara to one another before you depart for points north and south, east and west. Your beautiful and original Forward is your lasting memorial to your Alma Mater now in its seventy-second year. Most probably this day did not come fast enough. And so it will always be. Yes, you want to get going.

But stop! And take a panoramic view of yourselves from the time you began at your Alma Mater—maybe as a little fellow—till this moment: your daily trek, your lessons and games with one another, your sharing of your delights and moments of sadness, your successes and failures—and through it all your maturing into the physical, intellectual and morally trained young men you are today, ready to start your college life here in Japan or abroad—your lasting step up the ladder into your life ahead.

As you leave, your Alma Mater bows to each one of you and clasps you to herself in her pride that you were one of her own, thanks you for your confidence in her, forgives you for the hurts you may have caused her and wishes you God's blessings in your future endeavors and dreams. Finally she whispers into your ear that never to be forgotten thought from Shakespeare's Hamlet: Son, "To thine ownself be true!" God be with you! And Our Lady keep you!

when there are vast changes in the way the world goes, it's usually art & music that changes it. music is going to change the world the next time.
—jimi hendrix

are for success to motivate and to... unpersuasive that there is a worldwide subversion of youth by the glamorous appeal of the drop-out dopies? are the standard brands of christianity and judaism so devoid of spiritual power that they seriously fear the competition of chemical mysticism and neo-buddhism? is the "universal family" such a pretentious drag that it feels seriously treated by the appearance of tribal communities where sex partnerships are fluid and children are shared in common? and is the tough-minded, hard fact-facing male so sick and fighting mad at the resurgence of seventeenth century cavaliers with long hair and colorful dress?

such questions we have asked for years.

education is that on-going process which consists of learning how to ask questions.

'realistic people' who pursue 'practical dreams' are rarely as realistic or practical, in the long run of life as the dreamers who pursue their dreams.

To seek what is impossible is madness;
and it is impossible
that the bad should not do something of this kind.

By Marcus Aurelius

We stay the time to conclude our lives
of twelve years
With a stitch of
the tassel and a golden scroll of achievement.
These pictures here tell,
it seems to my mind,
a short period
in these twelve years
Namely the senior year.
Because we know that the basketball team's achievements are an indispensable column, there's no need for a picture to be inserted.

Let the future easy rider talk for himself: "Yeah, the picture reminds me of the time I used to speed up and down the Bluff. But soon I got tired of speeding things cuz they left nothing to the imagination. But couldn't forget the mood, so got to collecting antiques and started pulling a rickshaw (just for fun). But imagining myself pulling a rickshaw is getting tedious all the same now. Oh, by the way, I heard an editorial of the latest Indochina affairs over Truth Vision last night and Country N produced it. It was so innovative . . . vivid caricatures . . . no verbal expression . . . was true there was no need of imagining.

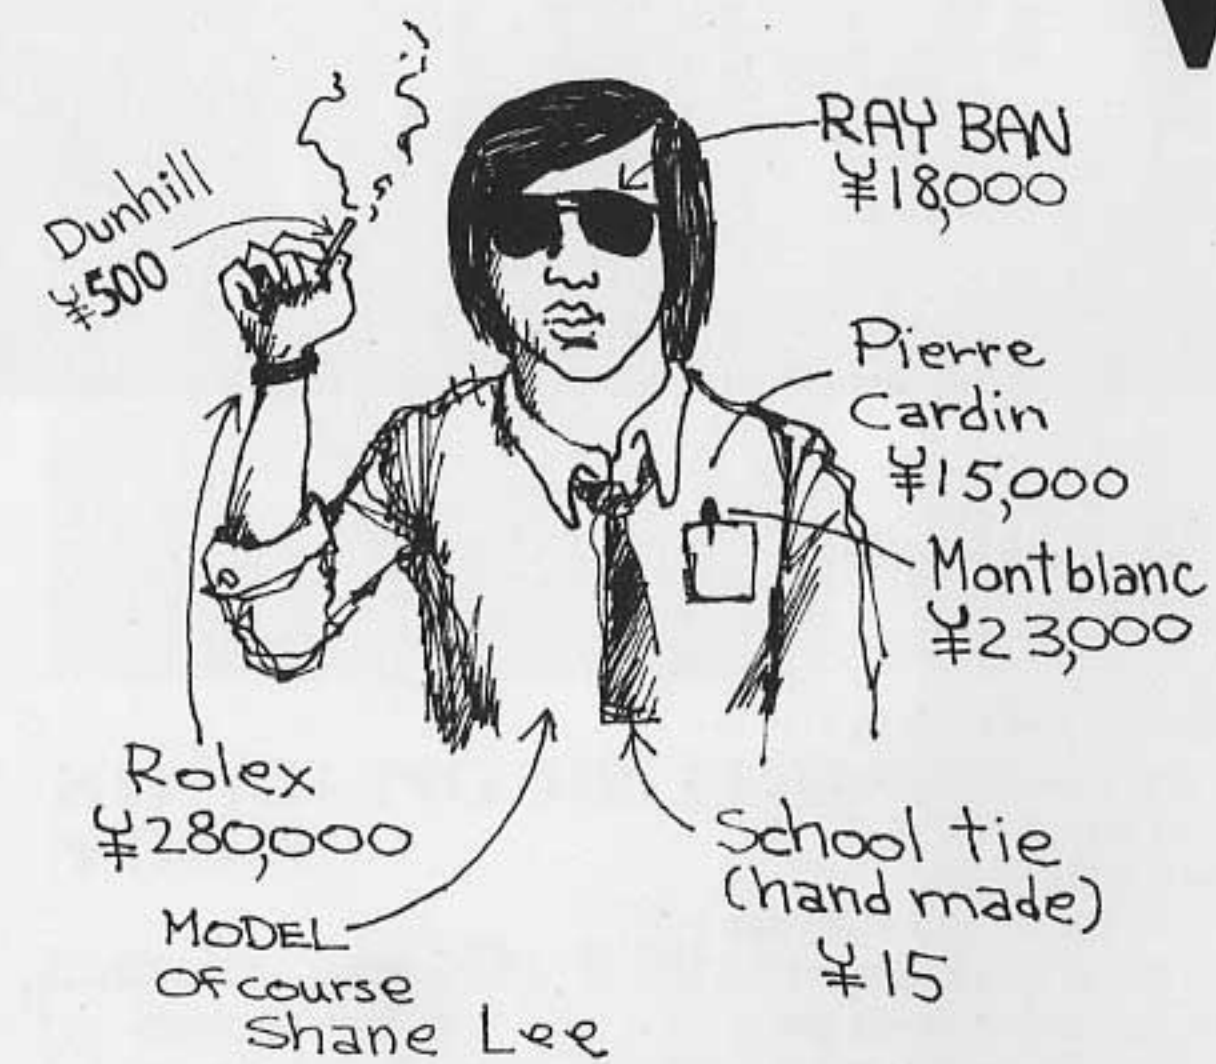

A photo with a vertical column, for example an "obelisk" by elementary photographic composition makes the object look more stable. But I have a feeling, not under clear judgment, that the obelisk stands for a conspicuous reason that a meaningful burdener would seek and apply. It is doubly suggestive of achievement.

The triple sequel stands in my mind for some unlit possible future truth. Besides its appreciable humor, if the sequel were a prophecy, then the two prophesized in the situation will realize its meaning with better meaningfulness, as well as the humor and they would turn to a profane pretention.

A black and white photograph of a group of approximately 20 students, the Class of '76, posing in a room. The students are arranged in several rows, with some standing and some kneeling or sitting in the front. They are all wearing dark suits or uniforms. In the foreground, two large tripods are visible, each with a camera mounted on it. The room has a plain wall with two small square windows on the left and a doorway on the right. There are some chairs and tables visible in the background on the right side. The lighting is bright, likely from overhead fluorescent lights.

“i don’t know enough,”
 replied the scarecrow cheerfully.
 “my head is stuffed with straw,
 you know, and that is why i am going to oz to ask him for some brains.” “oh, i see,”
 said the tin woodman. “but after all, brains are not the best things in the world.”
 “have you any?” inquired the scarecrow.
 “no, my head is quite empty,” answered the woodman.
